

July 13, 2022

Dear Blanco Tackabery,

Please accept this letter as my formal notice of resignation from Blanco Tackabery. Out of gratitude for such a wonderful work experience and generous flexibility offered to me recently, I'd like to offer more than two weeks' notice. I'd need my last day of employment to be August 5, 2022. However, should you name a replacement quickly, I am agreeable to depart sooner, at your discretion.

The decision to leave comes as a result of growing family responsibilities (aging parents and grandparents), a change in our kids' educational structure this fall, and growing demand from my Radio & Television Production Business. It has been a great pleasure working for Blanco Tackabery and I am thankful for the experience and knowledge I have gained during my time.

I feel more should be stated about working at Blanco Tackabery. First, I have appreciated serving a field where I had no previous experience (outside of jury duty service). It was wonderful to observe a caring and human side of the legal profession, alongside the precision and expertise of the practice. Second, while your firm needed a courier, I needed a complete change of career for a season. It was a much-needed break for my mind! Finally, the opportunity work here was a blessing. I use that word in its full, faith-based context. I've told every friend and family who has asked about my life over the last year and a half: "I don't think the firm knows how much they've blessed my life during this time!" In summary, it really has been a pleasure!

Please let me know if there is anything I can do to ease this transitory phase for the company or if there are questions I can answer. Also, given my other line of work, I'd love to continue service to the firm with any VoiceOver, video production, or audio production needs you may have now or in the future.

Sincerely,

Daniel Britt
